CHERRY HILL, NJ -- (May 3, 2000) -- Science Dynamics (BBOTC: SIDY), a developer of Internet Protocol-based (IP) telephony solutions, announced that Information Technology Services (ITS) has signed a contract to distribute SciDyn's Integrator series of IP telephony gateways. ITS, based in Surrey, United Kingdom, is a technology and communications solutions provider to European businesses.

Joy Hartman, SciDyn's president and CEO, commented: "As the demand for IP-enabled communications gains global momentum, SciDyn is building its indirect distribution channels in both established and emerging communications markets. Our partner companies must provide a clear strategic advantage. ITS is well established and attuned to SciDyn's IP telephony market strategy."

"Our relationship with SciDyn provides ITS with an outstanding solution for our customer base," said David Walsh, managing director at ITS. "Together, we are committed to helping more enterprises capitalize on the benefits of IP telephony. We see this emerging technology as the next step in the telecoms revolution and look forward to providing key solutions to our customers."
